PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Shelter Care

Women's Resource Center provides shelter, food, some clothing and personal items for women and children. The Center also provides counseling, advocacy, information and referral, support groups for battered women, emergency transportation to the shelter and transportation to and from school for children.

Battered women contact the Center through the 24-hour crisis line and are asked to go to a public facility. An advocate is dispatched to pick her up and bring her into the shelter. The only eligibility requirements are that they be victims of domestic violence or sexual assault.

While in the shelter, clients receive one-to-one counseling and assistance in setting attainable goals and objectives. Children receive services through the Children's Program.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS:

1. 24-hour crisis telephone services.
2. Temporary housing and food.
3. Information and referral for victims, children and appropriate referral for family when the decision is to return home.
4. Transportation services.
5. Follow-up services, including a survey (random sampling) of previous shelter clients a minimum of six months after discharge to determine if their present situations have improved or gotten worse since receiving services.
6. Provider agrees to have in effect a written policy to report all suspected cases of child abuse in accordance with Chapter 48, Wisconsin State Statutes and to cooperate with designated investigators on all suspected Child Abuse Investigations.
7. Provide assistance as needed in obtaining:
 - a. legal services
 - b. financial services
 - c. referral
 - d. education and vocational services
 - e. arrangement for education of school-age children
 - f. counseling services to alleged victim and, when appropriate, to work with victim and perpetrator to seek counseling through community resources.

At discharge, the resident would be offered continuation services if desired. This ongoing "needs assessment" would enable staff to more clearly determine what resources are needed to address each woman's or family's internal and external barriers.

Service delivery begins when an individual woman reaches out for help through the crisis line, where trained volunteers and staff respond to her need for emotional support and review the options available to her. Should she decide to seek shelter, and assuming that she meets the only criteria -- that she suffers from physical and/or emotional abuse -- transportation is arranged through one of our staff, volunteers, or local law enforcement and she is brought into shelter. At intake, she receives information regarding her responsibilities as a resident, as well as materials related to the dynamics of an abusive relationship. Additional information is provided to her regarding the scope of other services available to her through our program and in the community at large.

Within 48 hours, each resident meets with a member of the counseling staff to conduct a second stage intake, at which time each individual woman's specific life concerns are reviewed. This interview is the primary case management tool and enables us to identify specific areas of her life (i.e., financial support, housing) for which concrete assistance and advocacy may be provided. Other issues - alcohol and drug abuse, mental illness, or disability - will be referred to RCHSD or other appropriate services.

During her stay, she participates in the cooperative management of a community household. Regular house meetings are held, during which she has the opportunity to address any issues she has with program staff or other residents regarding house rules and responsibilities. All residents are expected to contribute to food preparation, basic household maintenance and to attend to the care of their own minor children. Throughout their time, women are required to attend one evening support group each week and are provided with other referrals that are appropriate to their needs.

Hand to Hand

Hand to Hand offers safe exchange and supervised visitation to families within Racine County. Families may come to the Hand to Hand program voluntarily, because of an existing restraining order between parents by court-ordered referral due to a history of domestic violence during a divorce and/or custody/placement decision. Some families are court-ordered to the Hand to Hand program because of a history of abuse, alcohol/drug addiction or a reunification plan.
